EAGLE. Pop 350. An incorporated town and mining settlement also known as Eagle City, on the Yukon River at the mouth of Mission Creek, 615 miles nw of Skagway and 100 nw of Dawson, Y T, the nearest banking point. First settled in 1897, platted in January, 1899, and incorporated in January, 1901. Town Council elected annually. Has a public school, Catholic church, a saw mill and several general stores. The town site is known on the government maps of the U S coast and geodetic survey as Belle Island. It is the location of a U S customs house, the military post of Fort Egbert, the U S commissioner, the mining recorder of Eagle precinct and the Alaska headquarters of several domestic and foreign hydraulic mining companies operating in the immediate vicinity. This is the outfitting point for miners located on American Mission, Boundary, Washington, Fourth of July, Trout and O'Brien Creeks, the n fork of Forty-Mile and the Seventy-Mile and its tributaries. Shipments may be made by boat via St Michael or by boat to Skagway, from there by rail to White Horse, thence by river steamer down the Yukon. Weekly stage to Dawson, thrice monthly to Circle and Chicken, fare $20. Telegraph service throughout Alaska and the United States. W F & Co Exp Clyde A Thompson, postmaster.
